Water District Offers Help For New County Flood Control Plan

CLASH MARKS MEETING OF DIRECTORS

Wallop, Mauerhan Trade Exclamations Before Move Is Adopted

NEW IDEAS PROPOSED

Committee Appointed to Help Keep U. S. Money Granted for Project

The Orange county water district has offered its assistance to the board of supervisors in development and carrying out of a new program for water conservation and flood control.

A decision to offer this support was reached by the water district board of directors yesterday afternoon at a session which bristled with new plans and hot words.

Roy Browning, engineer for the Irvine company and member of the board, had one plan. William Wallop, superintendent of the Anaheim Union Water company, had another. W. C. Mauerhan, Katella rancher and farm bureau leader, stuck to the old plan for a dam on the Santa Ana river, the plan which recently was defeated by the voters.

Hot Words Exchanged

During the discussion Mr. Wallop demanded to know why he had not been invited to certain conferences attended by other board members during the campaign. Mr. Mauerhan got to his feet.

"You know why you weren't there," he said.

"Why, no I don't," said Mr. Wallop.

"Well, I'll tell you why. You opposed the bonds all along!"

"I did not oppose them after the water companies and the supervisors signed the four-point agreement," Mr. Wallop shot back.

At this point hot words were exchanged.

A silence fell over the men in the room. They shifted in their chairs. Then Chairman Willis Warner said:

"I think we'd better leave personalities out of our meeting and get down to business."

Name Committee

Both Mr. Wallop and Mr. Mauerhan agreed. Later Mr. Wallop expressed regret for his words, but said they had not been spoken without some provocation.

The board authorized appoint-

Why Collect Butterflies? Just 'Pack Rat' Instinct, Says Lagunan Who Does it

By ROCH BRADSHAW

As soon as the door was opened, I walked in. I was sure I was in the right place because a little tot came up to me, held out a magazine and said:

"Mister, here's a book that tells all about the insides of bugs and beetles and people!"

I grinned at his daddy, who was standing behind him, and then replied:

"Fine, that's just what I've come to find out about."

Another reason I knew I was in the right place was that all over the room I saw butterflies and collecting paraphernalia. Along the walls were large cases that must contain mounted specimens. On the table was a soft piece of wood filled with many-colored insects stuck on pins.

The father of the little boy was looking at me. I looked at him and it seemed like it was time for me to say something.

I've been told you are a butterfly collector," I said.

"There's some foundation for the rumor," smiled Don Meadows, bug collector, high school teacher and authority on California history. "Sit down," he invited.

I sat down and he sat down.

HARBOR FUND TOO LARGE

$100,000 Returned to County; Work Will End on Dec. 15

Refund of $100,000 on the Newport Harbor development project and assurance of federal maintenance were given members of the board of supervisors yesterday by Maj. Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of the United States Army engineers.

The refund to the county represents a total saving of $200,000 on the project, General Markham said, as the government also will receive $100,000.

The harbor project, directed by army engineers, will be completed by Dec. 15, the engineering officer told the supervisors, and R. L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport Beach. This will include all channel dredging and extension of the east and west jetties at the entrance to the bay. Total cost of the project was first estimated at $1,825,000.

Federal Maintenance

The army already has taken the necessary steps to assure federal maintenance for Newport harbor under the same conditions that maintenance is extended other harbors on the coast. Official authorization of permanent maintenance work by the government probably will be received by Jan. 1, 1936, the supervisors were told.

Supervisor W. C. Jerome pointed out, following the conference, that the assurance of harbor maintenance places the county in a particularly advantageous position.

Newport harbor, he said, is the first pleasure harbor to ever be developed with federal aid and, for a time, it was doubtful whether the government would continue its assistance through

PLAN SUBWAY AT NORTHAM

State Submits $164,230 Buena Park Crossing Project to WPA

Construction of a subway under the Santa Fe tracks at Northam station, near Buena Park, at a cost of $164,230 was included in the list of projects submitted to the federal Works Progress administration by Earl Lee Kelly, director of the state department of public works, it was learned here today.

This and 38 other projects were submitted under the federal emergency grade separation to be financed principally through the $7,500,000 WPA allocation to the state.

According to information received today from the office of S. V. Cortelyou, district engineer for the state highway commission, the only expense to be borne by the state is the obtaining of the necessary right-of-way. This task will be made less difficult due to the fact that C. L. McComber is the only property owner involved.

Provision of the right-of-way for the underpass will be the only requirement made of the state. Be-

DR. WAYNICK LIKES FRUIT PACT PLAN

Anaheim Citrus Leader Says Governmental Regulations Good

RAPS OLD PROGRAM

L. A. Citrus Hearing on Market Agreements Still in Session

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10. (AP)—Dr. D. D. Waynick, director of the Anaheim and Central Orange county citrus fruit exchanges, testified today at a hearing on a proposed order for the government regulation of California and Arizona oranges and grapefruit, in favor of such regulation.

Dr. Waynick, chairman of the joint farm bureau stabilization committee which was responsible for the drafting and signing of the voluntary valencia marketing agreement in 1933, said:

"This agreement of 1933 under which 92 per cent of the valencia orange crop of that year was marketed, was the immediate predecessor of the California-Arizona citrus marketing agreement. In substance and in major position the present agreement is very much the same as that voluntary agreement.

"In June, 1933, the independent group holding not to exceed 10 per cent of the valencia orange crop, actually shipped as much as 27.4 per cent of the total number of cars of oranges during the week of June 17 of that year. On the other hand, in the week ending Nov. 7, the independent group shipped only 1.9 per cent of the crop while the stabilization group was still shipping a greater total number of cars as they did the week of June 27.

'Greater Inequity'

"I believe that these figures illustrate better than any statement which can be made how difficult or even impossible it is for any group of shippers even though they control 90 per cent of the valencia orange crop, to regulate shipments in an effective way without the cooperation of the shippers controlling the remaining 10 per cent of the crop.

"A greater inequity would undoubtedly develop if the California-Arizona agreement should be discontinued."

The first real flare-up of opposition to the AAA regulation plan came during the morning session.

This occurred while R. H. Wilkerson, vice president of the California Fruit Growers exchange, was reading a statement in support of shipment regulations. Mr. Wilkinson remarked that in the past persons seeking to limit shipments had been made to feel as though they "were in the shadow of the penitentiary." This was due to the Sherman anti-trust laws.

Robert B. Agins, representing a number of groups of independent shippers and growers, sprang up with an objection on the grounds that Mr. Wilkin-

With the finger of blame definitely pointed at him today by 50 nations in the league assembly at Geneva, Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy now faces "speedy punishment" at the hands of the united countries who have held him liable for invading Ethiopia and starting the Italo-Ethiopia conflict. Sanctions will be applied immediately by the league members.

BANDIT GIVES VICTIM 'RIDE'

Service Station Man at Costa Mesa Is Freed After Abduction

W. Vernon Thompson, Costa Mesa service station operator, had the ride of his life yesterday. He was forced by a bandit at the point of a gun to enter a car after the bandit had first rifled the service station cash register of approximately $6, and driven over back roads to a point near Stanton, where he was released.

The bandit drove into the Wallace Independent Service station in Costa Mesa at 4:15 p. m. yesterday and asked Mr. Thompson to fill the radiator. The bandit got out of the car and walked into the service station, where he was joined a few minutes later by Mr. Thompson.

Hand in Pocket

With his hand in the right-hand pocket of his coat, the bandit motioned to Mr. Thompson to put up his hands. He then ordered the service station operator to open the cash register and hand over the contents. Mr. Thompson then was ordered into the car and taken for a ride.

After he had been released near Stanton, Mr. Thompson telephoned the sheriff's office and reported the kidnaping and robbery. Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey, while investigating the case, received a

F.D.R.'S SONS IN ACCIDENT

James and John Unhurt When Auto Collides With Boston Train

BOSTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—Quick action by John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, prevented serious injury to him and his brother, James, when his car crashed through a crossing gate and collided with an electric train.

James was unhurt. John's left shoulder was bruised; his roadster was badly damaged.

The two sons of the President were riding in the roadster en route to the East Boston airport last night. John was driving, police said.

As the car neared a crossing of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad, the gates were dropped for a Boston-bound train.

The Roosevelt car splintered one gate, but John swerved to the right, bringing his car parallel to the train and heading in the same direction.

Simultaneously, William J. Norton, operator of the train, jammed on the brakes. As the train and car collided the front steps of the first railroad car were torn off.

The train, continuing in motion, caught the car on the rear steps. When the train stopped, the roadster was wedged between it and a post. The car's engine was smashed; the left side was a mass of wrinkled steel.

Both brothers said they were going about 15 or 20 miles an hour when the accident occurred and witnesses corroborated their statements.

Merchants Here Pick Dec. 5 For Preview Of Christmas Offerings

Something new and different in decorations will greet Santa Ana and Orange county residents Dec. 5 when local merchants hold their Christmas preview of holiday goods.

Another novel feature of the annual Christmas season festival may be the broadcasting of Yuletide music through loud speakers placed on every block of the downtown section. Last year carols were broadcast from the roof of the First National bank.

The retail division of the chamber of commerce, headed by J. H. Bell, made tentative plans today for the big holiday event, at a meeting in the chamber of commerce. A skeleton plan for the affair will be presented at another session scheduled for next Thursday.

The group designated to arrange the decorative scheme is composed of Ivie Stein, of Stein's Stationery store; Phil Brown, manager of the Business Men's association, and Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber. Mr. Bell will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee. The committee will be glad to receive suggestions for a novel decorative scheme.

The matter of loud speakers on each block was suggested at today's session, and will be investigated. Such broadcasts from KREG would give county-wide coverage, it was said.

Dec. 5 was decided upon today as the date for the preview when all merchants will unveil their window displays of new Christmas merchandise. The day will fall on Thursday.

Last year when a preview was held, lights in all stores were darkened until the explosion of a bomb gave the signal to flood the

League Sanctions To Be Applied By Huge United Front

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

GENEVA, Oct. 10.—The League of Nations, with 50 of its 59 members definitely on record as approving the punishment of Italy for its invasion of Ethiopia, moved today for a quick application of that punishment.

The steering committee of the league assembly decided representatives of every member of the league except Italy and Ethiopia should serve on a committee to coordinate the work of the council and the assembly in instituting sanctions against Italy. Since Germany will leave the league Oct. 21, the decision means that the coordination commission will be made up of 56 nations.

At the morning session, the assembly gave its overwhelming approval to the council's condemnation of Italy. League officials said 50 nations indorsed the verdict of war guilt.

Only Italy, Austria and Hungary announced non-acceptance of the council's report against Italy, although in league circles it was suggested Albania probably would at least make reservations to the general vote of condemnation.

Calls It Massacre

In an afternoon session of the assembly, Tecle Hawariate, the Ethiopian delegate, charged anew that his nation was the victim of atrocious aggression.

He declared: "It is not war but massacre, because of the superiority of the Italian armament."

He said that he would accept, in the name of the Ethiopian government, all procedure which the league decides on with a view toward ending the hostilities but that he would accept nothing which would place a premium on aggression.

Approve Sanctions

Approval of the league's stand for sanctions was expressed by representatives of Ecuador, Chile, Yugoslavia and Greece.

Gonzalo Zaldumbide of Ecuador declared the principles which are the only justification for the presence of the League of Nations have been violated.

"Before the existence of the League of Nations," said Zaldumbide, "this Italian war in Africa would have seemed like a colonial expedition, more or less justifiable under the old order of things, but there exists a league covenant which constitute a turning point in

ITALY TAKES HOLY CITY

Aksum, Once Home of Queen of Sheba, Is Captured Today

By JAMES A. MILLS

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 10.—The fall of the holy city of Aksum before the Italian advance and wholesale killings of Ethiopians by Italian air bombs in the south were announced officially today by the Italian minister and the Ethiopian government, respectively.

Emperor Haile Selassie requested the minister, Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, to leave at once, thereby with the recall of the Ethiopian charge d'affaires, Negradas Yesus, from Rome, rupturing diplomatic relations between Ethiopia and Italy.

Planes Spare City

Reports from Aksum, before communications were cut, indicated the Italian bombing planes had spared the ancient city of the Queen of Sheba and that the monks, fleeing before the Fascist infantry, were able to remove many of their holy relics.

A government communique said nine Italian airplanes bombed Gorahei, near Gerlogubi, and also the Ethiopian post of Taffarikatama and Jialmo, which are not marked on maps, and that many were killed.

The same communique said an Italian plane had crashed at Garaalta, on the northern front, and that two of the fliers were killed or were dying.

DEC. 15 IS DEADLINE ON SOUTH MAIN JOB

FEDERAL AID LIMITED TO THAT DATE

Cortelyou Warns Work Must Be Contracted for by That Time

Unless the proposed widening and extension of South Main street is under contract by Dec. 15, the federal allocation of $48,-183, already set aside for the job, will be lost, according to S. V. Cortelyou, district engineer for the state highway commission.

Mr. Cortelyou announced today that Santa Ana is one of the four cities of the 63 that submitted street propositions to succeed in obtaining federal aid. Los Angeles was another successful city and had one allocation made.

Under the original setup in the application for extending and widening South Main street, the city was required to spend $27,-123 from the gasoline tax fund as its share of the expense. Since submission of the project, the city's share has been reduced to $15,542. The state's share of the expenditure will come out of that portion of the gasoline tax which is turned over to the state for use on state highways.

It was pointed out today that the only money actually required from the taxpayers will be the amount necessary for obtaining rights-of-yay. The majority of the rights-of-way, according to present indications, will be donated, it was learned.

Federal money for the project already has been assured the state, according to Mr. Cortelyou, but contracts will not be let until the city council has adopted a resolution giving the assurance that the city will obtain the necessary rights-of-way.

Andres Convicted Here of $3000 Robbery by Female Jurors

A jury of 12 women in the superior court here yesterday declared Eugene P. Andres guilty of first-degree robbery in the $3000 holdup of Henry Weinberg on Aug. 4, 1934. Mrs. Andres, sitting in the courtroom, covered her face with her hands and wept when the verdict was read.

Russell Stambaugh, an accomplice in the stick-up of the two J. C. Penney company employes, pleaded guilty to a robbery charge Monday. Andres will be sentenced by Superior Judge Scovel Friday morning at 9:30 in department 3, at which time his attorney, Donald McKay, has announced he will move for a new trial.

son's statement was a personal opinion.

Mr. Wilkinson resumed his statement, declaring that dissatisfaction had been expressed by certain organizations over proposed marketing agreements. Mr. Agins also objected to this remark, which he said was not founded on fact.

"Regulation Needed"

"Nothing but a most systematic regulation of shipments can supply the market with enough, and not too much, citrus at one time. The marketing agreement represents the only fair way to regulate shipments," said Mr. Wilkinson.

Both C. C. Teague, president of the exchange, and Bruce McDaniels, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, told the hearing yesterday they felt prices could be equitably increased to the benefit of growers by the fruit proration plan.

Mr. McDaniels took issue, however, over the inclusion of California grapefruit in the scope of the proposed agreement. He offered testimony to show that increased prices on oranges had resulted in a reduction in prices for grapefruit.

The hearing is to continue tomorrow, and testimony forwarded to the secretary of agriculture.

cause the project was not included in the state highway budget for this year, it was said today, funds for obtaining the right-of-way will have to be taken from the department's unbudgeted reserve.

A survey party is working at present on the project, and Mr. Kelly said he is confident men will be working on the construction not later than Dec. 15, as required by the government.

Mr. Kelly said "the government has placed several restrictions with regard to the way this money will be spent. It is required that the money be apportioned to the various railroads according to their mileage in the state; that at least 25 per cent of the money be spent off of the federal aid road system, and at 30 to 25 per cent in municipalities or metropolitan areas.

"Although practical considerations, which in this case include the limitations placed by the federal government, are primary factors governing the choice of grade crossing projects, the division of highways has, nevertheless, endeavored to restrict the choice of projects only to those on major highway and railroad traffic arteries to grade crossings which have unusually bad accident records and to rebuilding existing dangerous grade separation structures."

Thought Estimate Low

Mr. Jerome said today that the refund of $100,000 on the harbor project is a tribute to the efficiency of the army engineering corps. When cost of the development program was first estimated, engineers were unanimous in the opinion that the estimate was the lowest possible and some were of the opinion that it was too low.

The Orange county delegation, consisting of Supervisors Jerome, LeRoy Lyon and N. E. West, Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson and Mr. Patterson, thanked General Markham for the efficient work done on the project and complimented officers in direct charge of the work for the fact that the entire program was carried out with very little inconvenience to people of the harbor district.

General Markham and his staff made a flying trip to Newport harbor late yesterday en route to San Diego and checked progress on the job. The general left last night to return to Washington, D. C.

HARBOR PARK IS APPROVED

Possibility of completing Harbor park, on the south end of Upper Newport Bay, looms with the approval by the board of supervisors on Tuesday of the project to be submitted to Works Progress administration

In the application it was pointed out that completion of the project "will make available a very large still water bathing beach."

Site of Harbor park formerly was swamp land that was covered with each time the tide rose. When dredging on the Newport harbor development program started the swamp was filled behind levees erected by SERA labor. This filled land has since been partially leveled.

Total cost of the new project was placed at $22,478, with the federal government providing $17,-742.

BUILDERS HEAR TALK ON WAR

A discussion of membership problems dominated the business session of the general contractors and Orange County Builders' Exchange at the monthly meeting at the White House cafe in Laguna Beach Tuesday night. Thermon Means, president, appealed to members to develop a closer-knit organization.

Following the business session, Calvin C. Flint, dean of men at Santa Ana Junior college, gave his views of the international political situation in Europe leading up to the World war and how definite alliances are affecting the strained situation at the present time. Mr. Flint returned recently from a trip to Europe, and said that a general European war is inevitable within two years. He based his prophesy on the changing balances of power among the capitalistic nations.

"England," Mr. Flint said, "always tries to maintain a balance of power in Europe, and to do this always joins the weaker alliance." He spoke of an "approved" speech made by the Prince of Wales before a World war veterans' meeting recently in which a friendly gesture was made toward Germany.

In the present Italian-Ethiopian situation, England looks to Germany for support, he said, but there will be no general European war now because Italy has no support, and Italy will be forced to accept a compromise and abide by sanctions and boycotts inflicted upon her by other nations.

MISS WENTS GIVEN COUNTY WPA POST

Miss Margaret Wents, Laguna Beach, will be intake and certification supervisor for the Works Progress administration here, it was announced here by Dan Mulherron, Orange county WPA head. Miss Wents will interview all applicants for jobs.

WORK STARTS NEXT WEEK

The long-awaited start of the Works Progress administration in Orange county will take place next Wednesday. One hundred and twenty-four men will go to work on three projects which have been approved at Washington, Dan Mulherron, WPA head here, said yesterday.

A total of $75,844.51 will be spent on the three projects, which are the building of a women's clubhouse at Brea, improvement of grounds at the Yorba Linda Grammar school and improvement of a new area at Irvine park.

George White of San Diego, WPA administrator for San Diego and Orange counties, declared that he expects many more Orange county projects to be approved in the very near future and that he believes the full program will be in operation shortly. Mr. White was in Santa Ana yesterday conferring with Mr. Mulherron.

Mr. White reported that in a recent conversation with Harry Hopkins, national WPA head, Mr. Hopkins told him that every Orange county project that had reached Washington had been approved.

Security wages will be paid on the local projects unless the sponsors desire to make up the difference and pay the prevailing wage, said Mr. White. It is only on this basis that the prevailing wage can be paid, and if it were paid, the projects probably could not start for another 30 days at least, because they would have to be resubmitted to Washington, he said.

The security wage scale approved for Orange county gives unskilled workers $48 a month, intermediate workers $55, skilled workers $70 and professional and technical workers $77.

The Irvine park project will employ 100 men for 10 months. It calls for improving an area recently leased to add to the older park area. Roads and picnic facilities will be built, and trees and shrubs planted. The WPA will provide $54,900 and the county $10,400.

The Brea Women's clubhouse job will employ 14 men for two months. The Spanish style structure will cost $8823, of which the WPA will provide $5339.68 and the city of Brea, $3483.32.

Ten men will be given employment for three months on the Yorba Linda school grounds project. The WPA will put up $1,-209.60 of the cost and the school district $511.91.

The State Emergency Relief administration, which formerly carried on construction projects for unemployment relief, has ceased this work and turned it over to the WPA. The SERA is now strictly a direct relief agency.

The Villa Park storm drain and the Batavia street storm drain at Orange, started as SERA projects, have been submitted as WPA projects. It is expected that their approval will be announced in the near future.

Dr. Guani of Uruguay said his nation remained faithful to the covenant, and also spoke of possible technical difficulties.

"The league is now faced by its second task," asserted Anthony Eden of England. Action must be taken. I declare our full willingness to participate."

Premier Pierre Laval of France also declared his nation's intention to meet its obligations under the covenant, but pledged himself to pursue at the same time a search for conciliation and a peaceful settlement of the conflict.

Spokesmen for Soviet Russia and other nations also threw their support to league action.

No Actual Vote

The assembly declared itself for sanctions against Italy without an actual vote. President Eduard Benes of Czechoslavakia announced that silence on the part of delegates was interpreted as concurrence in the decision of the council.

"We do not feel ourselves bound," said Guiseppe Motta, Swiss federal concillor, "to take part in sanctions which in their nature would expose our neutrality to real danger."

The assembly's decision—the first such in the league's 15 years of history—seemed all the more impressive in its lack of an actual vote.

After Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy delivered a spirited message of his nation's activities in Ethiopia and protested against the procedure of letting silence indicate acceptance of the council condemnation of Italy and application of sanctions, President Benes asked whether any others wished to dissent or make reservations.

No one spoke. So the decision of the council, declaring Italy resorted to war in defiance of Article XVI of the league covenant, was declared approved.

ported advancing in the Webbe and Shibeli region.

Reinforcements of 50,000 modernly equipped troops under Ras Guetatcho, Governor-General Kaffa Province, were marching toward Addis Ababa to wall off the capital from Italian attack.

Dedjazmatch Apte Mariam, another provincial governor who wears half moon earrings as a sign of his prowness as a soldier and elephant hunter, is on his way here with 20,000 more troops.

Dedjazmatch Mechacha of Kambata provience arrived with 15,000 and encamped.

Makonnen Demissi, the governor of Wallega province and a relative of the emperor, is coming to the capital with 40,000 more troops.

Other armies are on their way from different parts of the empire.

Puts Fortune in Banks

The emporor placed his entire fortune in foreign banks, including a huge sum left by his father, for the defense of the empire.

Cornelius Van H. Engert, the United States charge de'affaires, ordered a bombproof shelter built under the American legation. The French legation is employing workmen day and night to construct bombproof shelters there.

The emperor's action on requesting the Italian envoy to leave immediately was regarded by many as a technical victory for Premier Mussolini who, instead of recalling Vinci himself, forced the emperor to give the diplomat his passports.

Vinci told the Ethiopian government he was willing for his dozen aides to leave Ethiopia immediately but that he personally would like to remain in Addis Ababa until the two consular agents from Magalo arrive, probably Sunday.

The Italian minister's ouster terminates 50 years' effort on the part of Italy to win predominant diplomatic position in Ethiopia over Great Britain and France and also ends, at least temporarily, the Italian commercial, industrial and benevolent enterprises in Ethiopia.

BUTTERFLY COLLECTORS

away in the middle of a story about someone who threatened to cut off his cat's tail.

I got down to the interview at once.

"How many butterflies have you?"

Not Large—Just 2500

"Oh, not a large collection. Perhaps 2500."

"Why do you collect them? I understand they have no practical value. What's the use of having them?"

Mr. Meadows looked at me out of the corner of his eye.

"I collect them for the same reason that a woodpecker gathers acorns and sticks them into a tree. I just like to do it."

"Would you rather have a collection of 20,000, or have only 500 of the rarest ones in the world?"

Just Like a Pack Rat

"I'd rather have the 20,000. Of course it would be nice to open a drawer full of rare ones and see some other collector's eyes pop out. But I'd rather have the 20,000. Just the acquisitive instinct. A pack rat collects a lot of junk and puts it in his hole. A capitalist collects a lot of dollars until he has maybe a hundred million. After the first million or so, his collection of dollars doesn't do him any more good than the junk in the pack rat's hole."

"Supposing that is all true," I responded, "Will Herbert Hoover run for President in 1936?"

Without blinking an eye, Mr. Meadows replied:

"No, he won't run for President. He'll make an announcement within 90 days that he does not choose to run."

He had taken the sudden switch in the conversation without slackening his pace. But I noticed that he was regarding me rather skeptically.

I pondered his reply for a moment. He began getting a little restless and looked longingly at his butterflies.

"Anything else you want to know?" he demanded.

"Yes," I replied. "Is it true that the hair of a cat will cause hay fever?"

All About Cats' Hair

Just then I rocked on the tail of the cat belonging to Mr. Meadows' little boy—the tail that someone had threatened to bob.

After the squawl subsided, Mr. Meadows replied:

"Yes, the hair of a cat might cause hay fever. Cats also cause other complications."

The last statement sounded pointed, so I didn't pursue the subject any farther. There was an awkward silence. Pretty soon I got up to go. Mr. Meadows acted relieved. I didn't like that, so I tried to think of another question to ask him. I thought maybe I could catch him on one.

Must Have Counted 'Em

There was a little glass bowl of pins on the table. The pins he used to stick into butterflies.

"How many pins are in that bowl?", I asked.

"Four hundred," he answered. "I just got a new supply today. Wouldn't you like to be able to answer every fool question a fool newspaper reporter can ask?"

He grinned. I tried to grin, to. The interview was over.

Santa Ana, Cal.
Oct. 10, 1935.

Mr. Don Meadows,
Laguna Beach, Cal.

Dear Don:

I wasn't batty last night when I called on you and asked you all those phoney questions. And I'm sorry to have to put you on the spot this way today. But even a newspaper reporter gets in a jam for a story now and then. Yours truly,
ROCH BRADSHAW.

P. S. If you weren't one of my best friends, I wouldn't have the crust to write this story.—ROCH.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

More cigarettes are smoked today because more people know about them—they are better advertised.

But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

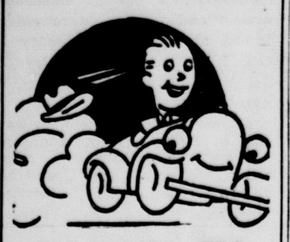

Chesterfield is made of mild, ripe tobaccos. Everything that science knows about is used in making it a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

We believe you will enjoy them.

PLAN COUNTY CHURCH CONCLAVE AT ORANGE NEXT WEEK

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

HARDLY know what to say about Midway City's firemen—they're getting worse and worse.

Some time ago we viewed with alarm when the fire fighters turned out in force and spent quite a time working on the lawn at the Midway City Woman's clubhouse.

We thought they'd lost some of their official dignity by attempting some work, but things have gone from bad to worse since we were there last.

Now they're planning to give a dance—and serve refreshments!

Can't you see Harold Robertson or some of his men, tripping around, possibly arrayed in white aprons, serving refreshments? That's what they intend to do. That is, they're going to serve food—we can't guarantee the aprons.

All foolishness aside, however, they do stage real dances, when they really start going, there at Midway City. This one is scheduled for Oct. 30, the evening before Hallowe'en, and they expect one of the largest crowds in history.

Maybe, with a such a big crowd present, they'll not be able to wear their aprons. Might be embarrassing.

THE firemen really did do a good job on the clubhouse lawn. It's now growing beautifully and looks like an expert job.

We can imagine the rush, however, when the fire chief tries to appoint one of his men as official lawn-mower.

WESTMINSTER Boy Scouts are busier than usual since school started.

They've put their cabin in condition for the winter by getting some new windows, putting in benches and a locker and getting cleaned up generally for the winter.

And now, they're starting in earnest on contests, trying to prove that each is a better scout than the other.

A hot contest is on between patrols and individual scouts, as prizes are to be awarded to the patrol and scout who passes the most tests between now and December. E. N. Toussaint has generously offered to donate the first prize, and there'll be others. A first and second award is planned for patrols having the highest standing and will be given by the scout committee.

BOTHERED Will Gallienne, Huntington Beach's biggest booster, yesterday.

Will is all heated up over beautifying the community—and it looks like they're getting action.

The city council has hired a landscape artist to tell 'em where to plant trees, and what kind. Some streets will be planted all over again, while gaps where others have died will be filled up with new ones.

HUNTINGTON BEACHERS rolled up their sleeves the other night and challenged the state board of equalization to a battle—they've been planning on a casino on their beach, and no mere state board's going to stop 'em from having it.

They also want to build a sewage disposal plant, and the board said to go ahead and spend more money this year for that, but to lay off the casino business.

That didn't make the city council happy, at all.

So they decided to give the board another chance—they've asked 'em to reconsider their decision. If that fails, they'll beard the board and battle desperately for their dance hall.

They may even call an election, if the board's still stubborn. They have federal money promised for the building, and, as other beach communities have dance emporiums of their own, and draw large crowds thereby, they think that they should get busy on their own. For which we don't blame 'em.

TROUBLE has started in "Camp Mitchell," hangout of the Patriarchs Militant, delegates to the grand encampment of Odd Fellows in the Anaheim city park.

Somebody's been entering tents there while delegates are out parading and removing wallets and other valuables. Brian E. Menzies of San Mateo even lost his clothes.

Must be a brave thief—those men all carry swords and all sorts of other military equipment especially made for blowing up or stabbing thieves who steal delegates' clothing and money. He'd better watch out.

REMOVE BEACH R.R. TRACKS

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The Southern Pacific railway is abandoning its old line that was laid many years ago between here and Newport Beach. Workmen are tearing out several miles of track between the two towns.

A few years ago the Pacific Electric purchased the right-of-way from the former owners. The old line was used in early days for transporting carloads of the great celery crop, that was raised in the outlying districts at that time.

J. M. Clar, inspector for the Southern Pacific from Hawthorne, has taken the Viera Villa apartments between here and Newport where he and his family are living until the track is removed.

Coast L-i-n-e-s

By McDONALD WHITE

That common disease known as "hometownitis" has the peculiar faculty of breaking out in a travel urge every few week-ends. No one is entirely immune, and the antidote is specific—go places. If you live inland, come to the beach; if you live on the coast, head for the mountains. A small dose of either taken 36 hours before Monday morning will definitely effect a temporary cure.

You know, that edgey feeling that creeps up on all of us motor-addicts toward the end of the week. Well, we threw a few extras into the worldly suitcase last Saturday afternoon and started for the highlands.

Stopped for a few minutes to see the progress of the movie set at Three Arches. In less than a week a small fishing vilage has sprouted against the cliff. Dozens of carpenters and plasterers were completing this illusion of foreign atmosphere. Looking down, the water was clear and green. The shell-like buildings hugged the cliff, the white-domed towers of a campanile rising above all the others looked as if a heavy sea would topple it into the surf.

And so on through Dana Point to San Juan Capistrano, turning right at the mission and taking the Ortega road through the mountains to Elsinore. Passing San Juan Hot Springs, the nudist colony sign, and other points of interest, the sudden view overlooking the valley and the lake is something to remember. Here a wide area has been cut out and a stone wall borders the outside edge.

It is eminently suited for a long and leaning look. And a sign says it is lawful to smoke here even going so far as to provide a windproof ash tray.

From there on it is only a few minutes run down into the valley. Surprising how different the lowlands look in small sections than from a bird's-eye view as a whole. From Elsinore to Perris. Between Perris and Hemet, within a space of three miles, we counted seven tarantulas crawling across the road on their hairy legs. Many others had been run over. Here in Laguna if we see one or possibly two a year, that's an event. But seven live ones in 10 minutes is a record.

From Hemet a fine paved road winds all the way up to Idyllwild. Half way up the air developed a bracing nip as a contrast to the dense warmth of the valley. Gradually symptoms of hometownitis disappeared; in place of this depressing condition came a feeling of adventure.

After satisfying our improved appetites, we decided to buck the nippy air and take in a nearby dance hall. The three-piece offseason orchestra, sans piano, rendered nothing but "mountain music," with all the jogs and prancing tempo thrown in. The crowd there was sociable and before long everybody was talking and dancing with everybody else. That's what mountain music does—blended with rarified air.

Waked up early in the morning to the tune of chattering blue jays and squirrels scampering across the roof and bright sunshine streaking through the windows and unbelievable quiet inbetween sounds. No fog, blue sky, a real treat.

On a hike later in the day we discovered a forked tree with a joining limb that had grown straight across the fork about six feet from the ground. Nature had fashioned a perfect brace between the two main trunks. Page Mr. Ripley!

Towards evening back into city clothes, locking up the cabin and starting for home. As the air had grown cooler as we went up the mountain, it grew warmer as we descended. Sunset and a red, hazy glare in our eyes until dusk. Back the way we came.

Moonlight over the Ortega is a symphony in silver. The smooth winding road unwinds like glittering tape as you climb to the top and drop down again into Orange county. The Hot Springs were thoroughly asleep, but Capistrano was alive to a bustling Sunday night crowd. Cars filled the main street—all parked parallel!—and the red neons filtered a hazy glow up into the incoming fog.

A few minutes more driving and we weer back in Laguna—glad to be back, as always, and immunized for a time against another attack of hometownitis. Even the column feels better!

REACHING way down to the bottom of the barrel for sports news:

Best indication that tonight's local fight is the genuine goods is the interest displayed by the sporting writers . . . all the boys in Row 1, Section B, are hepped up and will all be on the firing line tonight . . .

Bob Holzhauer meets Sailor Jack Hipps—if you haven't been reading your lessons lately—in a lightweight battle that should send the fans home talking to themselves. Holzhauer is already being groomed as a "white hope" for the heavyweight division although his participation in professional fighting is two or more years away . . . His father wants to send him to Berlin for the 1936 Olympics . . . After that he'll let the boy take out after a title . . . He has a record of 22 knockouts and even if only half of the victims are real, the mark is impressive . . . Hipps has never been beaten here and his handlers claim he has never been knocked off his feet.

GOING ROUND AND ROUND IN SPORTS

WE CAN'T TELL you why they are announcing it at this time but this morning the wire sent along a story that of the $209,224.71 collected for the Stanford-Alabama Rose bowl game last New Year's day, only $6.34 was lost in making change . . . Pasadena's share of the gate was $69,741; after paying tournament expenses and interest charges, $32,071.39 was left as a net profit to apply on the Rose bowl debt.

A sportswriter polled big league managers on heroes and goats in the world series, with the result: Heroes were Tommy Bridges, Lon Warneke and Goose Goslin in order named. Goats were Freddy Lindstrom, Bill Jurges, Umpire George Moriarity. George should have been first.

The managers who voted were Bill McKechnie, Bill Terry, Charlie Dressen, Joe McCarthy and Casey Stengel.

The medics have discovered a small fracture—after all this time—in Hank Greenberg's wrist . . . The Tigers are not coasting either, now that they wear the royal mantle . . . they are taking a great crop of youngsters to their Lakeland, Fla., training camp . . . And, darn it, three of the kids who are getting a chance are our friends Gil English, Wimpy Wilburn and Jake Wade, who punched and pitched for Portland this year . . . Dixie Howell, the Alabama air ace, is going along, too.

NO LOOKING BACKWARD FOR A. A. STAGG

AT LEAST ONE MAN who's seen more football than most of us can even talk about but who apparently doesn't talk with his head looking the other way is A. A. Stagg, the patriarch of Pacific college. Taking his valiant band of gridders to meet St. Mary's this week, he told scribes he thought "modern football players are better equipped than when I started coaching." He sobs no sobs for the past and thinks his little eleven could have outplayed most of the "great" teams of way back when.

NO SHAKEUP IN GAELS DUE

MORAGA, Oct. 10. (AP)—Contrary to widespread reports, Coach "Slip" Madigan will not make any drastic shakeup in his St. Mary's football lineup before the game Saturday with Amos A. Stagg's College of the Pacific Tigers.

"I still think we have a good ball team," said Madigan, "in spite of a little tough luck against California."

FOOTBALL FLASH

STANFORD UNIVERSITY.—Avoiding further injuries by refraining from hard contact work, Stanford's Indians are laying emphasis on punting and passing practice before their conference opener here Saturday with U. C. L. A. Most of the Indian cripples are back in shape to start, but Woody Adams, first string guard, is expected to be on the bench.

CHRISTOFFERSON OUT

PULLMAN, Wash.—Coach Babe Hollingbery may keep pass-snagging Ted Christofferson on the bench against Montana Saturday to insure a full strength Cougar eleven to face Washington the following week-end. The Honolulu halfback has been bothered with a bad shoulder all season, and the Cougar coach doesn't want to risk aggravating the inury just a week before the "big game."

COUNTY PREP ELEVENS TO COLLIDE

Panthers and Argonauts Play at Home; League Season Opens Soon

Tustin at Orange, San Juan Capistrano at Garden Grove, Anaheim at Riverside, Huntington Beach at Brea.

That is the main course of the Orange County Prep league's football menu this week, as the district teams prepare for the opening of their '35 schedule Oct. 18.

Play Night Game

Tustin's Farmers and Orange's Panthers, in separate divisions this year, clash on the Orange grid at 3 o'clock tomorrow, and Capistrano's Cougars and John Ward's Argonauts tangle at Garden Grove 30 minutes earlier. Anaheim's champs travel to Riverside for a night game at 7:30 o'clock, and the Huntington Beach Oilers engage S. S. (Shorty) Smith's Wildcats at Brea in the afternoon.

Garden Grove is all enthusiastic over its 6-0 victory from Tustin, and will shoot the works against the invading Cougars. The Grove eleven also upset Long Beach Poly's junior varsity, 7-0 Tuesday. Ward has moved Carl Lehnhardt, brother of John Lehnhardt of Santa Ana's Dons, to a halfback post on the first string with Les Monell, quarter; Dick Skinner, half, and Ben Kolb, fullback. An injury will prevent Takahaski, guard, from starting. He will be replaced by Mitchell. On the line will be Reynolds and Fritcher at end, Sidwell and Otta at tackle, Otsuka and Mitchell at guard, and Sullivan at center.

Orange is smarting under three successive defeats—Santa Ana, 6-0; Whittier, 20-6; Long Beach Poly junior varsity, 9-0—and may prove to be a tough customer for Tustin, whose offense has been functioning none too smoothly. Jim (Blondy) Danielson has replaced Virgil Poage at half in the Panther backfield. Coach "Stew" White also proposes to start Bob Baier instead of Capt. Lawrence Todd, who will be ineligible for league games on account of the age limit of 20. Elmer Rice will do the fullbacking. Poage will be shifted to end with Phil Herrington. Bob Faul and Gil Nehrig, tackles; Bill McNeil and Max Moore, guards, and Dickes or Mel Boehner, center, complete the Orange line.

Tustin Backfield

Paul Francis, quarter; Ed Bristow and Charley Miller, halfbacks, and Lewis Tadlock, fullback, are tentative backfield starters for Big Bill Cole's Tustinites.

Football Scores Contest Launched Today

COACHES AND WRITERS TO COMPETE

Prognosticators Choose Winners of Featured Games Each Week

The Journal today launches its first annual Football Scores Guessing contest. Seven coaches and two sports writers are entered. Every Thursday they will attempt to select the exact scores of leading games throughout the nation.

Contestants will be charged with 50 points, plus the difference in score, for every game missed. Fifty points will be subtracted for every exact score named. In the event of ties, 25 points will be added, plus the difference in score. Fifty points will be inflicted upon those who unsuccessfully pick ties. Lowest total score at the end of the season, of course, wins the contest.

Example in scoring system: A prognosticator tabs Illinois to beat U. S. C. 13-0. But the Trojans come through with a 13-7 upset. He loses 50 points (for picking the wrong team) and 19 points (difference in score) for a total of 69 points for the game.

Coaches W. W. (Bill) Foote, Reece Greene, Clyde Cook and Clyde Patton of Santa Ana High school; Coaches A. J. (Bill) Cook and Alvin Reboin of Santa Ana Junior college; Coach Ralph (Bill) Cole of Tustin High school; Frank Rogers, sports editor, and Paul Wright of The Journal comprise the "nervy nine." Join in the fun by keeping your own selections!

2 UNDEFEATED BOYS TANGLE TONIGHT

Long Beach Sensation Is Favored; Sailor Never on Floor

The greatest fistic "natural" of the season in the amateur boxing game here—a four-round battle between Sailor Jack Hipps, undefeated light-heavyweight star from the U. S. S. Pensacola and Bud Holzhauer, the "Blond Bomber" of Long Beach—takes place tonight at the Orange County Athletic club.

Making his first appearance in this section with a record of 22 kayoes and heralded as the greatest fighting machine to be developed in the amateur ranks since Joe Louis blazed, Holzhauer goes into the 101 highway ring tonight determined to add the name of Sailor Hipps to his long list of kayo victims.

Hipps Unbeaten

Hipps has never been defeated here. He registered eight wins in as many starts, winning via the knockout route in less than a minute two weeks ago. Before that he twice scored over Frankie Herrera. His handlers claim Hipps has never been knocked off his feet.

Tonight, however, he runs into a lad who hits like the crack of doom, an exceptionally polished boxer, game to the core and extremely confident of his ability to beat any man he is called upon to face.

On the other hand Holzhauer has never faced a fighter of Hipps' experience, or one quite so tough. The sailor also packs a terrific wallop.

Holzhauer Favored

Boiled down, it is a two-way test, with Holzhauer the one from whom fans expect the most.

Hundreds of fans are expected to invade Santa Ana for the fight, with navy boxing enthusiasts root-

GRESCHNER IS INELIGIBLE FOR DONS

Bill Greschner, Santa Ana Junior college's brilliant left-end, and part of the Dons' great aerial combination, today was declared ineligible for their conference football game with Riverside's Bengals here tomorrow night.

Greschner, who attended Fullerton Junior college last year, was hit by the transfer rule which requires a student to attend his new school a semester before he is eligible. It was erroneously understood here that Greschner had not graduated from Newport Harbor High school before entering Fullerton.

Injuries and Greschner's ineligibility have dealt a severe blow to Santa Ana's chances, although Riverside also will be handicapped.

Reliable reports from Riverside today stated that three regulars — Fullback George Parker, Tackle Mike Kusanovich and End Alfred Schantz—will be on the Bengal casualty list and unable to start.

Schantz, who alternates with Chuck Daniels at righ end, will be out of suit two weeks and possibly longer with a slashed right calf which required eight stitches. Parker wrecked his knee in a scrimmage with LaVerne Tuesday night, and it is feared it will develop into a torn cartilege ailment. He probably will not play 15 minutes—if at all—according to word from Riverside. Kusanovich, giant tackle, has been out of suit several days with an injured arm and shoulder.

Santa Ana is having its troubles, too.

Quarterback Bruce Harnois has returned to the squad following a knee injury, but probably will be held out tomorrow. He says he is ready, however.

Recent loss of Harold Youel and Sam Bragg, first-stringers, has left the center position in charge of Bob Spray of Tustin, whose place is at end; Charley Roemer, letterman tackle; and Les Minder, Anaheim blond. The steadiness with which this relief trio puts the ball in play will largely determine Santa Ana's success or failure, Cook believes. They have been rather unimpressive in scrimmage with low and wide passes that have marred many plays.

Equipped with an aluminum cast on his broken finger, Tackle Clarence Bolton will be available at the kick-off. Needless to say, he will be playing under a handicap, but the six-foot-two giant can be counted on to smear his share of the Riverside plays. Carl Benson, Tustin lad who was to replace Bolton, will remain at standing guard.

The Dons really displayed some fire in a three-hour drill yesterday. There were times when they looked very ragged, but for the most part, they clicked to the satisfaction of the coaching staff. Fullback Dick Moore, hardest driver on the squad, broke loose on a 50-yard touchdown run, and figured in several short gains through the reserves. Vernon Koepsel and Major Anderson showed up well at quarterback, and may relieve Joe Herbert and Oliver McCarter for a brief period tomorrow night. Herbert, lightning passer and the the club's most consistent punter, will start. All-conference Walt Hickman, 180, and John Lehnhardt, 170, Garden Grove huskies, will operate at half. Al Lamb will go to inside half when Hickman moves to fullback.

BRUINS 'READY' SAYS MENTOR

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Coach Bill Spaulding of the University of California at Los Angeles was satisfied today his Bruins are physically ready for their game with Stanford at Palo Alto Saturday.

"I'm more concerned over their upstairs equipment," said Bill with a broad grin on his face. "If their physical equipment isn't up to par it's too late to do anything about it now."

FUTURITY LURES BEST PONIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 10. (AP)—Minus the fanfare that attends the running of the 3-year-old classics, but far surpassing them in monetary value, the $100,000 Futurity will have its 46th running at Belmont park Saturday.

A score or more of the turf's ranking 2-year-olds are slated to debate the issue down the six and one-half furlongs of the Widener straightaway. Red Rain is favored.

JACKSON WINS I. A. BATTLE

OAKLAND, Oct. 10. (AP)—Young Peter Jackson, 140½, Los Angeles Negro, who wears the California lightweight championship crown, today held a 10-round decision won in last night's main event here over Gaston Le Cadre, 142½, of France.

TROJAN VICTORY HOPES HANG ON PAPPAS, GAISFORD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10. (AP)—The fact remained today that if Southern California is to turn back the invading Illinois eleven successfully Saturday that sophomore pair—Nick Pappas and Bill Gaisford—would have to do it.

With Glenn Thompson still nursing an arm injury, Pappas did most of the work yesterday as Coach Howard Jones groomed his squad offensively for the Illini. And when Pappas wasn't calling his own signals in the huddle he was throwing successful passes to Gaisford for long gains.

Further work on defense was expected to take up most of the time today as Coach Jones continued to rush the Trojans into the proper physical and mental condition for the encounter.

LONG BEACH FIRM BUYS GERMAN BUILT RACE YAWL

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 10. (AP)—The Contender, 160-foot yawl built in Germany in 1905 for the Prince of Lippe, has been sold at auction to the Sierra Investment company of Long Beach. It brought $6000.

Walter Horne, the former owner, bought the yawl from Lee and Paul Whittier in 1926. With the name changed from Poinsettia to Contender, the craft ran second in the San Pedro-Honolulu race.

SAINTS WILL HAVE YOUEL PART TIME

Because Carroll Joy's brilliant passing is needed at halfback, Bill Semnacher will go to left end if Capt. Erwin Youel is unable to start for Santa Ana's Saint gridders at Santa Barbara Saturday afternoon.

Youel, out with a wrecked left knee, engaged in a light workout in his gym suit at Poly field yesterday, and most of the stiffness has left his leg. The Saint captain is the best pass-snatcher on the squad, and although he probably will not start, Youel will see part-time action, according to Coach Bill Foote.

Mac Beall, quarter; Joy and Warren Mann or Les Bock, halves; Bill Musick, fullback; Semnacher and Harold Short, ends; Bob Reid and Jim (Red) Crowther, tackles; Lyle Moyer and Joe Crawford, guards, and Jack Robinson, center, are Santa Ana's tentative starters against the northern Dons.

FORM PLAYERS WIN AT TRACK

SAN BRUNO, Oct. 10. (AP)—Form players, cheered by a win after 21 straight losses at Tanforan track, are backing Linden Tree at 2½ to 1 to lead the field in today's sixth race, a six-furlong handicap.

Proprietor, favorite at the hesitant odds of 5 to 1, took yesterday's six-furlong feature in 1:12 2-5, to give the form players their first break of the current season here.

BISIGNANO LOSES L. A. MAT BOUT TO SANDOR SZABO

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10. (AP)—Sandor Szabo, 214-pound Hungarian, won the main event of the weekly wrestling show at the Olympic last night, taking two out of three falls from Al Bisignano, also 214, of Italy.

Szabo took the first fall with an arm lock, dropped the second under a series of the Italian equivalent of the Irish whip, and took the match with a punishing body press.

Moose Clabaugh, outfielder for the Portland coast league baseball club, wears glasses while playing.

THREE OTHER BOUTS

THREE ADMIT 11 KIDNAP FEATS

Robbery, Abduction of Pacific Coast Victims Confessed by Trio

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10. (AP)—Three men taken in custody early today were claimed by police to have confessed to 11 kidnapings and robberies from Olympia, Wash., to Los Angeles.

Detective Lieutenants Bert Anderson and Harry Maxwell said the three related their admitted career of crime had begun Sept. 29 near Olympia when they hitchhiked a ride with a man named Garner and robbed him, carrying him to Medford, Ore. They also were claimed to have admitted a wild cross-country kidnap-robbery foray between here and Stockton last week-end, together with several Los Angeles holdups.

The three men gave their names as William S. Parker, 19, Stockton, former inmate of the state industrial school at Whittier; James Lawson, 21, Modesto, and Henry Edward Lacy, 22, Fresno.

Anderson and Maxwell said they arrested Parker hiding in a garage in near-by Bell, and from him gained information which led to the arrest of the other two in a Los Angeles hotel.

Anderson said that Kenneth Milster, Long Beach cosmetics salesman, first of five persons kidnaped in the gunmen's mad dash up-state last Saturday night and Sunday, identified a picture of Parker as one of the two men who abducted him.

VACCINE LEAVES NO SCARS

New Technique Is Revealed

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 10. (AP) — Four thousand lucky mortals who escaped scars by a new kind of smallpox vaccine were cited at the American Public Health association today as reasons for health officials to reconsider the entire smallpox vaccination technique.

The objective is not to please the half of the population which tries to hide its scars, but to introduce wholesale tests of a new and cleaner type of vaccine.

This new vaccine has been developed in the last three years at the Rockefeller Institute, New York. Its latest phase was reported today by Thomas M. Rivers, M.D., of the institute.

It is made by giving smallpox to a laboratory test tube instead of to a calf. The vaccine obtained from the tube is free from the foreign and troublesome impurities that are inseparable from the calf vaccine.

So pure is this new vaccine that Dr. Rivers said it can be injected hypodermically underneath the skin. The result, he said, is no soreness and no disfiguring scar. Vaccinated children can be bathed as if they had never been touched by the needle.

The next step is verification in the field of already good laboratory evidence that this vaccination protects. All the 4,000 thus far vaccinated are immune by such tests as can be made.

SUNDOWN STORIES

SEEKING

By Mary Graham Bonner

"What has happened?" asked Rip, the dog.

"What has happened? Tell us at once," growled and cawed and quacked and bleated and cackled the others.

"One of the floor boards has fallen out and the bag of money is gone," answered Willy Nilly.

"Are you sure?" asked Top Notch. "It's so dark we can hardly see anything.

Were Well Fed

"I am afraid I'm sure," replied Willy Nilly. "There were too many of us in the car and the weight of the bears is even greater than when we left home. They were well fed while they were away."

"I believe I felt a part of the floor giving 'way under me when I was coming along," growled Jelly Bear.

"Why didn't you speak about it?" asked Willy Nilly.

"Oh, I covered so much space that there was still enough floor for me there so that I remained in the car," laughed Jelly Bear.

"When did you notice the floor, or part of it missing?" asked Willy Nilly.

'Wasn't Sure'

"I don't suppose I noticed it right away. I began to feel uncomfortable and then realized what had heppened. I forgot that the money bag had been put in where I was, or rather I wasn't sure where you had put it. I merely knew it was in the car. I got in afterward, you remember. Oh dear, everything was so wonderful, and now I have caused trouble."

"Tell us about how far back you think it must have been," said Willy Nilly. "We must go seeking it at once!"

TWO IN TIE FOR TALK HONORS

Heading up a program of speeches devoted largely to a discussion of current social and economic problems, Dr. C. J. Ruley and Eugene Kruger tied for first place in the weekly speaking contest held by Smedley chapter of Toastmasters International at its meeting last evening at James cafe.

Dr. Ruley, speaking on "The Community Chest," reviewed the background of the Chest movement and said that wealth could be either a blessing or a curse to its owner.

"The Merry-Go-Round" was the subject of the talk given by Eugene Kruger in which he discussed various phases of national distribution of food and other commodities under the New Deal.

Allan W. Goddard, speaking on "The Man on the Street," told of the contrasting types of people to be seen on the streets of any city.

Horace O. Ensign gave a "Craft Talk," the first talk given by a Toastmaster on entering the club.

LeRay Quick gave an impromptu talk on "National Fire Prevention week" in which he outlined the national annual fire losses and told of some of the fire prevention measures used by large corporations in protecting their offices and plants.

An unusual event during the dinner hour was the surprise presentation of a birthday cake to Herbert Thomas, associate secretary for boys' work at the Y. M. C. A., who cut the cake and passed it around to the members.

Stanford E. Moses, jr., speaking on "The Stench of Civilization," told of various odors and smells arising from different industrial plants and commented on their effect on those who live in the vicinity of such plants.

David Cherry presided as toastmaster, with Henry Bosch as general critic. Dr. Arthur B. Wade was a visitor to the club.

AUGUST WEDDING OF COUPLE TOLD AT HOME PARTY

That Miss Alice Des Larzes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Des Larzes of Orange, was married last Aug. 1 to Nathan Allan Dunlap of Sterling, Colo., was learned by a group of friends who attended a party which her mother gave for her, Monday evening in the family home.

The party was first planned for Dec. 1, when Mr. Dunlap will arrive for a six-week vacation in Orange.

Orange and black cards were inscribed, "Somebody let our cat out of the bag . . . Alice-Allan, Brighton, Colo., Aug. 1." A snapshot of the pair also was in evidence.

Court whist was played. Miss Dorothy Finley and Miss Nettie Willoughby won prizes. Later, slips of paper were distributed, each containing a line of a story written by the honoree's father, the story of the childhood days of Alice and Allan, in Boone, Iowa, and their friendship of more than 10 years, which climaxed with their wedding this summer.

Yellow flowers and black candles in black holders decorated the table, at which ice cream and cake in Hallowe'en colors were served. The bride was pleasantly surprised by a telephone call from her husband, who is still in Sterling.

The new Mrs. Dunlap is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Des Larzes, prominent Orange family. She was a member of the graduating class of 1935, Orange Union High school, and is a talented pianist.

Guests were Misses Maryester Wood, Doris Riffle, Dorothy Finley, Katherine Brewer, Nettie Willoughby, Dorothy Simpson, Mary Moose, Sabre Batchelor, Patricia Butler, Barbara Hallmann, Doris Asher, Nancy Herrington, Cecil Nichols, Erene White, Phyllis Kogler, Marie Bivens, Edith Kuester, and Vivian Hahn, and Mesdames Paul Nelson, Byron Fletcher, Franklin H. Minck, Blanche V. Bortle and Mrs. V. A. Wood, the latter assisting in hostessing.

His Excellency—

HERMAN G. KUMP
Governor Of West Virginia

GOV. HERMAN GUY KUMP, former circuit court judge, smiles easily and often but he is a hard fighter who, in his own words, feels "at home under the guns." He reads many good books, hunts, travels, fishes, raises bird dogs, rides horseback. . . . He became governor in 1933 when the Democratic party took control of West Virginia for the first time in 36 years . . . and immediately put West Virginia university's bureau of governmental resources to work as his "brain trust." . . . Now has the state politicians guessing about his political future.

How Counties In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl Lee Kelly has had prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

KERN COUNTY

Created April 2, 1866. This county derived its name from the Kern river, which was named for the lieutenant of that name of General John C. Fremont's third expedition in 1845-47.

With an area about the size of Massachusetts, this county is made up of picturesque mountains, productive valleys and arid deserts. Vast underground resources of petroleum, gas and minerals supply the markets of the world, while enough cotton and wool are produced to clothe 100,000 persons. Varied fruits, field crops, vegetables, live stock and dairy products and scores of manufacturing plants add to the prosperity of Kern.

The mountain area comprises more than 3,000,000 acres, including a portion of the Sequoia and Santa Barbara National forest. The Sierra Nevada on the east and Tehachapi mountains on the south offer excellent hunting, fishing and camping. The Golden State highway running from north Mojave up through eastern Kern to south, El Camino Sierra, from to the Invo-Mono playground, an excellent highway leaving Bakersfield, traversing the Sequoia National forest and a fine road crossing northwestern Kern in its course to the coast route highway at Paso Robles provide spendid means of seeing this extraordinary county.

Live stock raising is an important industry. Cotton production is increasing annually, 66,000 acres being now devoted to this product. Kern is well adopted to fruit growing. Oil has been produced in the county for forty years and at present more than 50 per cent of the oil producing area in the state is here. Randsburg, a Mojave desert town, with a population of 443, is the home of the famous Yellow Aster gold mine, which has produced $18,000,000, and the Kelly mine, also one of California's best gold producers. Population: 82,570. Area: 8003 square miles.

SOLVE BLADE PROBLEM

WATER DISTRICT DROPS PLANS FOR DYKES ON SANTA ANA RIVER

PRETTY YOUNG GIRL KILLED IN MYSTERY

18-Year-Old High School Student Is Strangled; Few Clues Found

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 10. (AP)—Mystery surrounded today the slaying of Muriel Hall, pretty 18-year-old high school girl, who was strangled to death in the living room of her home in a fashionable residential district.

With only the unmistakable mark of a fingernail on her slender neck and an unlatched door as clues, police were questioning friends and schoolmates of the girl in the hope that they might find some motive for the slaying.

Found By Father

The girl was found dead by her foster father, Leonard I. Hall, manufacturing company executive, when he returned home early last evening.

She wore the same light brown dress in which she had returned from school only two hours before. No sign of a struggle was apparent in the four-room apartment which Mr. Hall and the girl occupied.

Performs Autopsy

Coroner David H. Atwater performed an autopsy.

"Death by strangulation at the hands of a person or persons unknown," was his verdict.

Police who at first believed the girl had committed suicide or died a natural death launched a search for the slayer.

Muriel was enrolled at East High school here and, so far as police led by Chief Henry T. Copenhagen could learn, she had few friends and no enemies.

GOLD IN 'THEM THAR HILLS'

But the County Hasn't Much

There is gold in "them thar hills" of Orange county, but not much, according to a report just released by the United States bureau of mines. Also there is some silver, but that runs even less than the gold.

According to the report, 16.37 fine ounces of gold was taken out of Orange county in 1934 and two ounces of silver, showing a total valuation of $573.

The report also shows that the state's gold output increased 17 per cent in 1934 under the stimulating influence of higher prices. Total production was 719,063.92 fine ounces. Production in 1933 was 613,578.85 ounces.

CUTTING'S MOTHER WON'T ACCEPT $10,000 U. S. GIFT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. (AP) — The mother of the late Senator Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico, has advised Vice President Garner she would "not be justified" in accepting the $10,000 appropriation ordinarily made by the senate to next of kin of deceased senators.

"While I am told that it is the custom of the senate to make such an appropriation to the next of kin of deceased senators," Mrs. W. Bayard Cutting wrote, "I feel that in view of the circumstances in which I find myself, I would not be justified in accepting such an appropriation from the taxpayers' money."

1936 BALLOTS WILL CARRY BIG NAMES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—The 1936 ballots will carry a liberal sprinkling of "big names." For instance, so many nationally-known men will be in the running for senate seats, that the senatorial elections promise to be of unusual interest.

Whenever political minds take time out from mulling over the Presidential campaign, they turn their attention to the senate.

The constitution says that one-third, or 32, of the senate's 96 seats must be filled every two years. Of the "constitutional 32" at stake next year, a dozen are now held by men who are veterans of at least 10 years' service in the senate.

Included in this 12 are the leaders of both major parties—Joseph T. Robinson (D., Ark.) and Charles L. McNary (R., Ore.)—and the senate's dean in point of service—William E. Borah (R., Ida.) Borah came here in 1907. In point of service, Robinson is tied for fiftn place with George W. Norris, Nebraska, Republican Independent, whose seat also is at stake next year. McNary holds down No. 8 position.

Others in the senior first 12 and their service rankings are: Morris Sheppard (D., Tex.) of prohibition fame, tied for No. 4; Arthur Capper (R., Kans.), Pat Harrison (D., Miss.), and Henry W. Keyes (R., N. H.), tied for No. 9; Carter Glass (D., Va.), No. 10; James Couzens, R., Mich.), No. 13; Jesse H. Metcalf (R., R. I.), No. 15, and Thomas D. Schall (R., Minn.), No. 16.

First race to get under way will be that for the seat of the late Senator Huey P. Long (D., La.) Both the short and full terms will have to be filled. The primaries are in January.

TUBE-TESTING FOR RADIOS OFFERED

With accurate tube-testing service offered free by all Pep Boys stores, many Southern Californians are finding new pleasure from radios through this service, according to Murray Rosenfeld, general manager of the Pep Boys of California. Newest type mutual conductance meters are used in the tests, and locates tube trouble with the utmost precision.

"Very frequently one tube only may be enough 'under par' in performance to mar the tone reproduction of even the finest radio," Mr. Rosenfeld said, "and our method of locating the trouble easily detects what is wrong. A number of radio owners have told us that they had contemplated expensive repair jobs on their sets, only to find that the only treatment necessary was one or two new tubes.

"All our stores offer this service, which is absolutely free, and the fact that we remain open until 9 o'clock in the evening presents an additional convenience to radio owners."

WAR MIGHT END CROP CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—Chester C. Davis, the farm administrator, has announced that crop control programs would be suspended temporarily if war conditions abroad bring high prices sustained above parity.

The programs then would be continued for the remainder of the contract period, he said, when and if prices declined.

Praising the present adjustment machinery as a means of meeting increased demands as well as reducing production, Mr. Davis said it offered a means of "cushioning the shock of a sudden fall in prices which inevitably follows the close of a war."

GRAY, CONVICTED ROBBER, WILL BE SENTENCED FRIDAY

Homer Gray, convicted Tuesday of first degree robbery by a jury in department 1, superior court, will be sentenced, probably to Folsom prison, tomorrow at 10 a. m. when he appears before Judge H. G. Ames. A prior conviction will send him to Folsom, and the fact that he used a revolver in robbing the Bay Shore Auto camp will preclude an application for probation.

Gray arrested on another charge was later identified by Heinze Kaiser, proprietor of the auto camp, as the man who held up and robbed the office of $75 after having bound Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser. The robbery for which Gray was convicted was committed Nov. 19, 1933.

RELIEF DENTAL WORK PAYMENTS ARE DEFERRED

The county relief committee has referred to the State Emergency Relief administration medical advisory board the question of paying $1353 for 24 dentures. The dentures had been recommended by the SERA dental committee.

The reason for deferring action, according to Director Terrance Halloran, was that four advertising dentists have complained that they are to be discriminated against and will not participate in SERA dental work, for which the government pays. He said none of the four dentists was involved in the groupe named to do the 24 dentures, but that the committee wishes the complaint settled one way or the other before approving the 24 dentures.

TELLS DOG OWNERS TO GUARD PETS

City and County Poundmaster H. D. Pickering is warning dog owners to beware of "dognapers" who have been operating in this city and are now becoming active in Whittier.

Mr. Pickering said that many pedigreed dogs have been stolen here within the past few weeks and he urges owners to keep their pets either in yards or houses unless accompanied by members of the family.

He said that most of the thefts here have been wire-haired terriers, Bostons, Pekingese, fox terriers and Scotties. It is his opinion that the thieves steal the dogs here and take them to Los Angeles where they are sold.

TEACHERS WILL HEAR SINGERS

As a special feature of the Orange County Teachers institute meeting Friday, at Orange High school, the national championship Pomona College Men's Glee club will sing under direction of Prof. Ralph H. Lyman, head of the music department at Pomona college.

Winners of the last national contest staged in St. Louis in 1932, the Pomona club last year successfully defended its Pacific Southwest championship for the tenth time in 11 seasons of competition.

Before Orange county teachers the club will sing five numbers, among them a group of college selections. Despite the fact that at the start of the present year 16 vacancies in club membership were filled, the Pomona songsters indicate that they hope to defend successfully their title holdings.

PWA REFUSES $50,000 AID FOR WORK

Decide Cost Too High; Water Spreading to Be Resumed

The Orange county water district had dropped, for the present, its plan to build concrete dykes along the banks of the Santa Ana river. This protection work had been proposed as a means of keeping the river within its channel.

At a meeting of the district board of directors yesterday afternoon in the office of C. A. Palmer, secretary, Mr. Palmer reported that an application for Public Works administration aid for the project had been turned down because the $50,000 cost is too high.

In view of this development the board took steps to resume the water spreading operations which were carried out on the river last winter. This work was done with State Emergency Relief administration labor and involved construction of temporary dykes and ditches to spread storm waters.

The board authorized appointment of a committee to request the board of supervisors for the services of Flood Control Engineer Murray N. Thompson in preparing an application for aid from the Works Progress administration. However, the application will be held in abeyance temporarily. In case another general program for flood control and water conservation develops, the spreading project will be held up until that issue is decided.

A bill for $278.37 for the services of Paul Bailey, consulting engineer for the district, was presented. Mr. Bailey's services were rendered for 12 days in making plans for the proposed bank protection work. A bill for $199.96, his services and expenses to and from Sacramento last June in connection with the amendment to the water district act, was presented. This amendment, which broadened the powers of the district, was passed. The board decided to ask Mr. Bailey for blueprints of the river bank protection plans before allowing the bills.

Plans of Study Formed; Speaker Addresses Economics Women

Training for children in preschool days, rugs of Turkey, Persia and Armenia and how they're made, and duties of section leaders were considered at different hours yesterday when three different groups of Santa Ana Valley Ebell society clubwomen had their first meetings of the new year.

Mrs. Aubrey Glines, leader, entertained the child study section last evening in her home on Greenleaf street. She was assisted by Mesdames Chester Horton and R. M. Conklin in serving a delicious dessert course early in the evening.

Tells of Nursery School

Mrs. Milo K. Tedstrom, section secretary, reported on the section leaders' meeting earlier in the day. Mrs. Newell Moore told of the value to children, parents and teachers of the nursery school, and showed motion pictures of nursery school routine.

Mesdames Conklin, Moore, Kenneth Conner and R. C. Harris were appointed on a program committee for the year.

J. H. Minassian, Los Angeles collector of rare rugs, told of the romance of rug-making and the life of the European and Asiatic peoples who make rugs, and showed many rare rugs to the 50 members and guests of the second household economics section who met yesterday afternoon in the clubhouse.

The section members had a 12:30 o'clock luncheon before the program. Mesdames W. S. Thomson, leader; R. G. Tuthill and R. P. Yeagle were luncheon hostesses.

Next meeting, Nov. 13, the section will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its organization with a special program.

Mrs. E. M. Waycott displayed tooled leather. A class in leatherwork is to be started soon.

It was voted to limit the group to 20 working members. Eighteen attended the covered-dish luncheon served in the garden.

Singer Wins Enviable Success

BY ELLEN SNEBLEY

"All my life I've longed to write music and receive recognition for it—and now my dream has come true!"

The tantalizing scent of cookies she was baking came from the kitchen, and as I sat across from Madame Manuela V. Budrow-Rafferty, Santa Ana's beloved "Spanish nightingale," I found it almost hard to realize that the dark-haired, brown-eyed little woman before me was not only a homemaker but also a singer, teacher, composer, magazine editor and the musical supervisor of Keith Productions company, a new Hollywood motion picture studio.

Finishes Score

Ever since the Olympiad in Los Angeles, when Madame Budrow played a prominent part in the music of the occasion and wrote her brilliant Olympic march, she has been coming into increasing prominence in Southland musical circles. Now she has finished work on the entire musical score of a new film, "The Irish Gringo," a Keith production soon to be shown in Santa Ana.

The busy Santa Ananne is also under contract with Madame von Akermann, noted German actress and playright, to write the music for the motion picture version of her book, "Aunt Belinda's Legacy," which will be produced by one of the major Hollywood studios.

Is Music Editor

Madame Budrow's Spanish songs, her delightful setting for a bit of Shakespeare including the passage, "The earth is but an echo, an echo of the spheres" and countless others of her compositions have won her friends among music-lovers far and near.

Her latest activity is the beginning of work as music editor for a new magazine, "The Nation's Talent," soon to be published. She is spending almost all her time at present in Los Angeles, coming home Fridays to continue her voice teaching.

My parting impression was that on the stage, in her home or whatever the role may be, the glamour of her Spanish ancentry never leaves "the nightingale."

Make Your Own Magazine Inserts, Suggests Reader to Wife Who's Losing to a Book

By MARY STODDARD

If your husband likes to read, why not give him something to read about? That's the suggestion of today's helper for the wife who finds herself sitting across from the wrong side of a magazine every night. Love notes and hints for attention could be easily distributed in that way, this reader thinks.

Dear Miss Stoddard: May I add a little advice to the wife who is "Trying to Be Fair"?

She complains that her husband reads and reads and reads. In that case, I don't see why she hasn thought of the following scheme long ago.

Insert in the magazines that her husband is most liable to read, little slips of paper with the following:

"Dear, I've had a busy day washing clothes, would you mind helping me dry the dishes?"

"Darling, will you help the children with their homework tonight?"

And don't forget to flatter him on the first couple of slips, and I assure you that if you apply a little tact and inventive genius, you won't be the first wife who cured her husband "by mail."

HELP.

P. S. On the first slip write: "I love you" (sign).

Mosbaugh, Sarah Alford, Abbie Vandermast, Annie Arnold, Clara Hoff, Hannah Huntington, Marietta Philleo, Maude Wallace, Lottie Rittenhouse, Martha Ritchey, Kate Hendricks, Fannie Newman, Rose Diers, May West, Johanna Cole, Lydia Fipps, and Frances State, Santa Ana; Rosa Lewis, Mary Beach and Kate Marckham, Fullerton; Hattie Davis, Mrs. Stanley and Stella Reed, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Minnie Davis, Mrs. Mabel Johns, Whittier; Gretta Lockey, Brea; Mrs. Mary Reed, Huntington Beach, and Mrs. Bressler, Anaheim.

Whittier Gives Drill

A drill by the Whittier corps was directed by Mrs. Mary Mitchell, Anaheim, and accompanied by Mrs. Virginia Jones. To the two leaders, Mrs. Stanley presented gifts from the Whittier corps.

DORCAS SOCIETY TO GIVE SHOWER

Dorcas society members of the First Methodist church will shower the new kitchenette with gifts at their meeting tomorrow in the church social rooms at 2:30 o'clock.

A project of the organization, the kitchenette was inspected at last month's meeting of the group and a survey made of needed supplies.

Use cold water for egg stains. Boiling water should be used for stains caused by fruits, fruit juices, and such. Cold water must be used for meat juice, or for a blood stain where a child has had a tumbling, gravel scraping accident. Soap and cold water, or a starch paste also serve well for taking out the stains made by meat juices.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you think that young people who are leaders in school usually live up to their reputations in later life, so that it's worth-while to encourage leadership in them, early?

Mrs. D. E. Liggett: I think they do. It's a great help to them in after-life, to have learned how to be leaders when they're young.

Mrs. A. E. Wallace: Yes, I do. A young person who has initiative enough to be outstanding in school usually keeps on being outstanding later. It's wise to encourage children toward leadership.

Mrs. R. E. Shoop: I think it's a good thing to encourage young people in leadership, and often proves valuable to them.

MARKET GOES UP, FEELING BOOM FEVER

Buying Spasm Laid to Inflation Forecast by Exchange Head

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Oct. 10. (AP)—The stock market had a touch of boom-time fever today as prices were whirled up 1 to 2 or more points over a broad front.

The buying spasm was attributed partly to the speech last night of President Charles R. Gay of the New York Stock Exchange in which he warned of the possibility of drastic inflation.

The majority of the leaders held around their tops.

The European situation and the African war seemingly were neutral market influences, although watched closely. Wheat helped a little by rallying a cent or more a bushel. Cotton was a bit backward. Railbonds improved, but U. S. government securities sagged. Foreign exchanges were quiet.

Shares of Chrysler, and several others, reached new highs for the year or longer. Among the more active gainers were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors, American Can, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Case, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Schenley, American Commercial Alcohol, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 10. (AP)—In one of the most impressive rallies of several weeks, stocks bounded upward today for gains of 1 to 3 or more points.

A touch of inflationary psychology, combined with a better brand of business news and the apparent lessening of war tension in the financial district, helped the recovery. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,750,000 shares. Closing prices:

Accused by Newport Beach police of having started a fire which partially destroyed a building at Corona Del Mar owned by the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of the Santa Ana Christian church, F. K. Handy, jr., is on trial in department 2, superior court. He is charged with arson.

The morning session was devoted to the selection of a jury with O. A. Jacobs, attorney for Handy, opposing Harold McCabe of the district attorney's office.

According to Newport Beach police, Handy was discovered in the building, located at 1109 Coast boulevard, by Police Officer shortly after the patrolman saw smoke pouring from the windows. Handy is alleged to have told the policeman, "I am drunk, and when I am drunk, I don't know what I am doing."

DISTRICT WPA OKEHS 2 JOBS

Two Orange county projects, calling for employment of 83 men, have been approved by the Works Progress administration at San Diego, it was learned here today. Announcement of approval of the projects, which will cost a total of $32,534, was made by George White, director of the WPA for the san Diego and Orange county district.

The work will be done under the direction of Dan Mulherron, Orange county WPA head.

The projects approved by the San Diego office were submitted by the Newport Mesa Irrigation district at Costa Mesa and by the city of Orange. The former includes the releveling of a reservoir 150 by 200 feet in size, encasing leaking steel water mains in concrete and grading 600 feet of roadway 20 feet wide. The cost will be approximotely $7,-561 The project will employ 28 men.

The Orange project consists of laying 3450 feet of 18-inch sewer pipe, 4590 feet of 70-inch pipe and installation of 17 manholes. The cost will be $24,973 and employment will be provided for 55 men.

The projects must be approved at San Francisco and Washington before work can start.

ment of a committee to confer with the supervisors and see what can be done toward preserving the $6,574,000 federal grant which was offered if the county would match it with a $6,620,000 bond issue. Both sums were to be used for building a dam on the Santa Ana river and smaller dams on seven other streams.

The same motion pledged the water district to assist the supervisors in carrying out an alternative plan which might meet with approval of the whole county.

Suggests New Program

Mr. Browning said that if the recently defeated plan comes up again, he will have to oppose it because it includes what he termed political dams. He suggested that a new program be developed in which the Santa Ana river dam would be lowered to 50 feet in height, and in which all other dams except one proposed for Brea creek and one for San Juan creek, would be eliminated. He said he believed another bond election might legally be called in less than six months if it were for a modified program. The law provides that another election for the same program cannot be called for six months.

He also said he has information from a man in close touch with government officials, to the effect that if the county comes back with a modified plan, the government is certain to provide 80 per cent financial assistance. He declined to reveal his source of information.

Suggests Another Plan

Mr. Wallop said he believed an effort should be made to use part of the federal grant for permanent water spreading works on the Santa Ana river and dykes to protect the banks. He also advised that studies be continued on the possibility of importing Mojave river water.

Mr. Mauerhan said there is only one solution to the problem and that is the dam on the Santa Ana river as proposed in the Elliott plan just defeated. All plans for speading and dyking the banks are contingent upon such a dam being built, he said.

Mr. Mauerhan said he believed there will be a concerted move to put over this program, and that if another election is held, he believes the bonds will carry by 1000 votes.

Opposes Dykes

Dykes on the river, without a dam, have been called impractical by competent engineers, Mr. Mauerhan said. He contended that they would not control major floods. Suggested plans call for dykes as far down as Seventeenth street, he said. If a flood overflowed the river below that point, he said, the water district might be held liable if it bulit the dykes.

The four-point agreement to which Mr. Wallop referred in his heated discussion with Mr. Mauerhan was one in which the major water companies set forth points on which they wished to be assured by the county before deciding their attitude on the bonds. This agreement was signed by the supervisors and the water companies. Neither company opposed the bonds after this step was taken. The Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company urged its stockholders to support the program.

TO START NEW STATION

Work upon the new Goodyear Super-Service station, to be located at Walnut and Main street, will start tomorrow morning, according to Jules W. Markel, contractor. The cost of this improvement has been placed at $10,486.

At present the Goodyear organization is located at 307 East First street.

windows with light. Christmas carols filled the air and all stores threw open their doors.

It is expected that some similar plan will be followed this year. New goods will be on display and each store will have a staff on hand to explain the merchandise and also to serve those who wish to buy on that night.

A cup will be awarded to the store having the best display. Last year the window displays were judged, but this year the plan may be changed and the exterior decorations may be judged instead. The cup was won last year by Swanberger's store for men. It is a perpetual trophy, but permanent possession can be gained by winning it three years in a row.

Members of the retail division attending today's meeting were Mr. Bell, of the Bell Drygoods company; Carl Stein, of Vandermast's men's clothing store; P. F. Colanchick, of the Famous department store; John Knox of the Knox and Stout hardware store; Ivie Stein, of Stein's Stationery store; James Harding, of the Chandler furniture store, and Walter Swanberger of Swanberger's store for men.

WEDNESDAY CLUB MEETS IN NEW HOME OF McNEILLS

Members of the Wednesday club were entertained yesterday afternoon in the new home of Mrs. Ross McNeill, 1617 Durant street, for an informal party.

After a tour of the home, the guests played a guessing game. Mesdames Clarence Renshaw, Curtis Vaught and Esther Getty won prizes. The hostess served a dessert course. Mrs. Jones was a special guest.

Others present were Mesdames Jack H. Reed, Louis Westphal, Dudley McLean, Clinton Armstrong and Albert Hehn.

HITCH-HIKER FALLS OUT OF CAR, ISN'T EVEN MISSED!

Robert James, 22, Portland, Ore., was found lying at the side of Manchester boulevard last night near La Habra, suffering from wrenched ligaments in his back and a fractured leg. Deputy Sheriff James Workman took James to the county hospital.

James told the officer he had "thumbed" a ride from a point near Los Angeles. Somehow he fell out of the car and the driver apparently did not notice his absence, because he continued on his way without even slowing down, he said.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

IT IS NO SECRET that the musical world considers Jascha Heifetz the genius of the violin. At least that's the way the majority of musicians feel about it. So when he makes one of his rare air appearances it's an event in radio. His second for the season will be during the half-hour

TREAT "World Peaceways" program, KHJ-CBS, 6:30 o'clock. Alfred E. Smith will speak on the broadcast. They tell a very funny story on Heifetz. If you've heard it, don't stop me.

In the CBS building, New York, musicians are required to use the freight elevator and are forbidden in the regular passenger cars.

All unaware of this, Heiftz, fiddle tucked under his arm, entered the passenger car. Both starter and elevator man bellowed at him:

"Hey! You! Use the freight elevator at the end of the hall!"

"But I'm Heifetz," responded the bewildered musician.

"Now get this," rejoined the pair, "we don't care if you're Rubinoff! Use the freight elevator!"

So with a chuckle Heifetz, the world's greatest violinist, took the freight elevator.

Honoring the 100th anniversary of the birth of Camille Saint-Saens, "The Symphony Hour" leads off

CONCERT with the famous French composer's "Marche Heroique." Dr. Alfred Hertz conducts. Program details follow:

Marche Heroique.....Saint Saens
Overture—"Merry Wives of Windsor".....Nicolai
Valse Triste.....Sibelius
Allegretto—"Symphony No. 8".....Beethoven
Ave Maria.....Schubert-Cameron
Norwegian Wedding Procession.....Greig
Liebestraume.....Liszt
Finale—"Symphony No. 4".....Tschaikovsky
Beautiful Blue Danube.....Johann Strauss

In addition to a talk on "War and Peace" by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Rudy Vallee's revue will also have guest appearances by VARIETY Edward G. Robinson, screen favorite, and Bob Burns, the Arkansas Traveler. Bob, whom we used to work with on KFI's "Fun Factory," is doing right well by himself in the east.

Between Paul Whiteman's and Vallee's variety hours, he's practically a network regular.

James Melton turns radio actor for just about the first time in his eleven or twelve years on the air when he plays and sings bits from his movie, "Stars Over Broadway,"

ACTOR during the Atwater Kent concert, KHJ-CBS, 5:30 to 6 o'clock. A variety of musical comedy selections have also been programmed by the popular young tenor.

Inspector Emery, in charge of the radio activities of the Los Angeles fire department, has prepared a special dramatic program in DRAMA observance of "Fire Prevention week." "A Day With the Firemen" is the title and comes over KHJ at 6 o'clock.

MORNING STAR
— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Felton has found little to interest her in Elston, after graduating from college. She has even lost touch with David and Judith Carroll, and losing David was a wrench. He is in China, trying to forget the loss of the beautiful Carroll plantation in hard work. Emily is rebelling against another year of time-killing as the socially very worthy librarian of the Elston public library. She tells her father and mother she wants to go away.

Chapter 16
WORD FROM DAVID

"Where on earth would you go?" Frances asked.

"To Birmingham, perhaps. Anywhere where I could really do something." Charlotte was still in Birmingham, eating it up.

"But what would you do?" Frances' voice had a staccato quality.

"Anything that came up. Newspaper work, perhaps. I can write pretty well." She felt childish and incompetent. "Or I could teach. An Ardmore diploma's quite a boost."

Frances began to recover. "I never heard of anything so absurd, Emily. To leave us—alone—and go off and live in some warren in a city. Without any experience at all."

"There's only one way to get experience," Emily pointed out. "And that's to experience things."

Still Jeffry was silent. He looked older now than before, and her heart ached for him. If only she could make them see her side of it! She was almost 24 and she wanted first to be free for a while, and then to marry.

And if she stayed in Elston there would be—Edwin. Somewhere in the world there must be a man with David's charm and Edwin's stability—a man she could not only love but marry.

But you couldn't say: "I want to marry some day, and there's no one here but Edwin. And since the Lord helps those who help themselves I must get out and find someone." You couldn't put it that baldly, even though you knew, and they knew, that you spoke the truth.

"I did hope," Frances' voice had a plaintive note, "that after four years of college we'd have you at home for a while."

"But you have," Emily insisted. "Over two years."

Frances appealed to her husband. "Jeffry, tell her how absurd it is."

Even in the candle-light his face was white and drawn. "We'd miss you, honey," he said, simply.

Her eyes burned with sudden tears. She loved him unbearably, even more than independence, but she clung to the thought of independence like the drowning man to his straw. Knowing that she and the drowning man had about the same chance.

"But it isn't absurd, is it?" she pleaded.

"No," he said gravely, "it isn't absurd."

Frances gave up any pretense of eating. "You're being as ridiculous as Emily! You know how you've enjoyed having her here; how you've looked forward to it, and hoped that eventually—" she broke off. Emily knew the hope! it had to do with Edwin. "And now you're taking her side and suggesting that she go to some city and live like—like a tenement worker."

"I'm not." Even Jeffry, Emily knew, wilted before the fire of his wife's convictions. "I'd be lost without her, but her wanting to go isn't absurd. And I'd see that she didn't live—like that."

They rose from the table. Frances went stiffly out to give the servants orders for morning. Emily and Jeffry, with their arms about each other, walked slowly towards the garden.

Emily stopped and faced him. "Would you really be lost without me?"

He didn't answer for a long time. "I'd manage—somehow," he said at last. "It had to come eventually." But his voice had broken as he spoke.

It was the break that did it. If there had only been six children, she thought, it would have been very different. But she was all he had, and she worshipped him. She flung herself into his arms, crying against the rough linen of his coat.

"I'll stay."

He didn't even trust himself to speak. He held her close and patted the back of her throbbing head.

The following week brought a letter from Judith, occasioned by the momentous news it contained.

"I was going to make another attempt to get you down here" (Judith wrote), "but Mother Nature, if you want to call it that, tricked me. I'm finally going to have the baby—a boy, I hope, named David Carroll Morton, and I'm having a foul time. Goodness knows why they call it an Interesting Condition, because it's anything but that: one minute I'm afraid I'm going to die, and the next minute I'm afraid I'm not!

But I shan't give up trying to get you—you know what a persistent creature I am when I choose to be. So don't tie yourself up too tightly with matrimony or that library job until I get this out of the way.

I gathered from the tone of your last letter that Elston wasn't such a successful playground, and that the library was a last resort. I can't bear to think of your being miserable just because what you imagine to be your duty demands it.

David has been transferred to Istanbul, which, I learn from him, is another name for Constantinople. I only succeed in getting information from him by sending a list of questions, with blank places for answers, in every letter.

He teases me about the questions—says I've neglected to ask whether he's eating his spinach and saying his prayers every night—but I don't care. He's the apple of my eye and I'll get him back some day, if it takes the rest of my life.

He's never gotten over being homesick for Carrollton and never will: it's born in him. He insists that he'll never come back, but I have a hunch he's saving money and will descend on us some day—if it's 20 years from now. Carrolls always manage to be surprising, even to each other—"

Istanbul. And David insisted that he would never come back—She read the rest of the letter through a mist of tears, and answered it almost immediately. Judith's loyalty to their friendship touched her so deeply that she always wrote two or three letters to Judith's one, and felt that the proportion was not unreasonable.

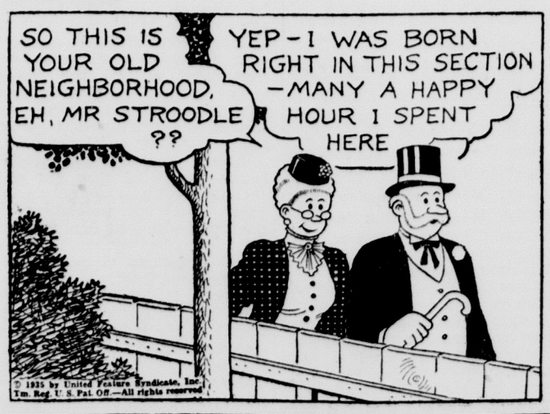

Early in October Edwin was called to New York on business. It was the first time he had been away for more than a day or two since Emily had been at home, and she was astonished to find that she was lost without him. If she hadn't always enjoyed Edwin, she had at least been occupied with him. When Edwin was there she knew what she was going to do with her evenings.

He wrote daily; stiff little letters like himself, with an occasional note of yearning between the lines, like the expression she sometimes surprised in his eyes. The business was progressing satisfactorily; he was enjoying New York and seeing some excellent shows, but he would much prefer to see them with her—

THE JOURNAL

THE JOURNAL has entered upon its sixth month as Santa Ana's good-natured newspaper. It is fitting, we think, to pause a moment to express our pleasure and gratification over the progress which has been ours during this interesting period. In other words, we are stopping in the midst of another busy week to answer the oft-repeated question:

"How you doin'?"

Very well, thank you. So well, in fact, that when the history of newspaperdom in Southern California is written, The Journal will be outstanding by reason of the remarkable progress it made during its first half year.

Today we publish our postal statement, as required by law. It shows an average daily circulation of 5,133 since the first editions rolled off the presses May 1. That means an average of 5,133 subscribers have received The Journal every day and said to the carrier boys: "Keep on coming."

While the figure represents the actual number of subscribers, the press run actually has shown an average of 5,589, not including Fridays when The Journal is distributed to something over 16,000 Orange county families.

The Journal feels it has hit its stride; that it has become firmly rooted in the minds and hearts of Santa Ana and Orange county people who enjoy a good-natured newspaper, militant enough at times to stand up and fight in the open for what it believes to be right.

The Journal has aligned itself with the progressive, forward-looking element of the garden spot of Southern California. It has found its place in the homes of people who recognize in it an institution that stands for the welfare of home, city and county ahead of its own selfish interests.

To the many who have written, telephoned and expressed their friendly interest in person, The Journal extends greetings, thanks and sincere appreciation. We are enjoying our job of serving the community and we feel very much at home among a people who even now seem like old friends.

NO PLACE FOR AGITATORS

THE BEST contribution which can be made to business recovery is a truce between industry and labor. While governmental agencies are striving to restore prosperity, agitators in many parts of the country are delaying the program. It seems that in our own state San Francisco is the focal point of dissension, and promoted by an alien, Briggs, who was responsible for the former disturbance, which grew so alarming that it became necessary to call out the state militia.

There isn't any element so important to the return of better times than employment. Work and wages are inseparable to our national contentment. Very few men welcome labor trouble. Most of them are content and want to work. Those who project discontent into the ranks of labor are usually transient, lack the local viewpoint, and have nothing to lose while the men at home bear the brunt of the strike.

If a business is not prosperous it ceases to operate. When it closes its doors men are idle. It is the duty of the workmen to contribute their part to build merchandise and character so the firm can sell its goods. The obligation of the employer is to return to the laborer a fair wage for his services. Under this arrangement the transaction is mutual, and in most cases can be reached if agitators of the Briggs type keep out of the argument.

OLD FRIENDS RETURN

CASUAL CONVERSATIONS with retail merchants reflect an improvement in business. Some report a steady growth, others an intermittent advance, and there are records where the chart shows high and low spots which vary with last year's comparisons, but in the main the level is above that of 1934. In general the retailer is more optimistic. Individual cases have come within the reportorial purview, where decided improvement has been made, and most of the merchants are able to present a better business balance than they have been for some time.

One satisfactory gleam comes through the survey which the retailer has been looking for. It is the number of customers who are returning to Santa Ana to renew their relations with the merchants. The depression, and possibly other causes, cut the out-of-town trade to a record low, but with a gradual betterment in business, former customers are visiting the county seat and re-establishing the commercial contact.

The Journal does not claim to be responsible for this renewal of friendly contact, but it has been the aim and purpose of this paper to contribute to such a result.

FLAPPER BECOMES A MOTHER

IF YOU can remember the years immediately after the war, you will probably recall that a great deal was said about the wickedness of the flapper in those days. She wore short skirts, she rolled her stockings, she was slangy and irreverent and somewhat skittish, she smoked cigarets and now and then took a drink; and all her serious elders predicted a bad end for her.

A good many years have passed since then, the post-war flapper is now, in most cases, a mother, and Dr. Frances Gaw, psychologist, declares bluntly that she is doing right well at the job.

Dr. Gaw has seen a number of children of these ex-flappers in schools, and she says they give every indication of having come from homes that are conducted safely and intelligently. If you can judge a woman by her children—and it's not a bad gauge—the flapper has turned into a pretty nice sort of person.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 10. — Many believe the penthouse, like so many upshoots of rarin-to-go days, is on its way out. The few new apartment houses now being built do not include the roof residence and any number already built are being dismantled. And many are for rent.

O. O. McIntyre

There are, of course, respectable, beautifully terraced and appointed pents with satisfied tenants. But the idea is associated with go-lightly gazelles and drinking orgies and now and then a pistoling to add a splotch of red to the pink of dawn.

This size-up has been fostered by derisory movies, novels and several plays. People of refinement who would like to enjoy the undoubted advantages of the pent-house hesitate. They fear a certain stigma. Men with responsible jobs dodge them for the same reason.

The pent-house had its splurge during the three years before the Wall street smash. The idea was not new. Earl Carroll built the first one in 1919. It became a craze. Sky-high living blended with ski-high money making. In one year 400 were built. Now it's: Ground floor—everybody out!

Nothing, in my mind, in years is more hilarious than the story whispered around concerning a dignified matron of New York recently granted audience with Mussolini in Rome. As everyone knows, so honored, the walk from the massive entrance doors to Il Duce's desk is considerable. In fact, to the self conscious it seems the Boston commons. Anyway the lady had traversed half of it when she looked around wildly, swallowed madly and gave vent to a sudden loud hiccup. There were no more. Just one, but it was a lulu.

Major Edward Bowes has become the most highly paid entertainer of the day. With his multifarious chores—directing a large theater, sitting in studio conferences, broadcasting, making movie shorts, organizing amateur road tours, etc.—his income is said by such an authority as Variety to be $19,000 a week. He made and lost several fortunes on the Pacific coast before he came to New York. He's in his middle 50's. And a grand character.

Al Jolson, year in and out, has probably been the largest earner in the amusement field over a stretch of years. And is still going strong. Jolson was drawing down $1,000 a week at the Winter Garden in the days when $500 was a whopping salary for a star. While his passion for the ponies has cost him a lot—sometimes $20,000 a clip—he has taken care of himself and whatever happens to the dollar there's little liklihood of a benefit for Jolson.

A surprising residential cul de sac in Greenwich Village is called Grove Court, on a serene block of Grove street. It is entered from the sidewalk through an iron gate arched in brick. Beyond is a sweep of grassy court, a scatter of benches and several meanders of graveled walks. The houses are six in a row of red brick, ivy clad and with sky-blue shutters and balconied windows. There's a peep of lace curtains and log-burning hearths. Like a slice of London the tourist never sees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—While Mussolini, chief protector of Austria from the bogey of Nazism, has been busy in Africa, Hitler has been making a lot of quiet headway.

Confidential reports by the American legation in Vienna indicate that Hitler has adopted the strategy of peaceful infiltration rather than forceful seizure.

To this end Colonel von Papen, former German chancellor, now German minister to Austria, has informed authorities that pro-Nazi Austrians must be appointed to key positions in the Vienna government. In return, he promised that Hitler would forego armed invasion.

On one occasion Von Papen called on Chancellor Schuschnigg and handed him a list of Austrian Nazis whose appointments were necessary. The appointments were made.

"I will give my life for my President, but I will not get seasick for him!"

WAR WEAPONS

ONE big thing worrying the French and their Little Entente allies right now is the age of their armament. Ever since 1920 they have been busy arming, with the result that a lot of their weapons are pretty well outmoded.

France, for instance, has the biggest force in Europe. But out of her total of 2800 planes, only about 1000 are modern and of any real military value.

On the other hand, the Germans, who were held back by the Versailles treaty, have been building the most modern and up-to-date fighting planes in the world. The German force, despite its size, is effectively superior to the French.

The same is true of German tanks. At the recent German maneuvers in Nuremberg, new Nazi tanks came bowling across a rough terrain at 60 miles an hour.

French military attaches, invited to the maneuvers, watched with bulging eyes. They had nothing to equal them.

PROHIBITION AFTERMATH

SO COMPLETELY does the supreme court spot-light play on New Deal test cases that nobody takes notice of a mere matter of two million dollars, involved in the case known as The United States versus The Glidden Company.

More interested in collecting than in crusading, Attorney General Cummings is pushing this case because it looks like a good chance that was muffed by his predecessor.

It was in prohibition days that Glidden allegedly diverted the alcohol regarding which they are being sued today. It is charged that Glidden bought alcohol ostensibly to make lacquer and lacquer thinner, then "cleaned" it and sold it for beverage purposes, paying no tax.

A lax enforcement system during prohibition avoided test cases. But last year a smart young lawyer in Cummings' office saw a chance to open fire for big money, and sold the idea to his chief.

The Glidden case involves only a little more than two million dollars. But if won, it will pave the way for collecting millions from other companies. Biggest bill would be paid by U. S. Industrial Alcohol company—$8,140,000.

Though the total is twenty millions, justice department lawyers privately admit they will be jubilant if they collect half of it.

INSIDE word is that Elsie Ripley Clapp, close friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, is on the skids. She is getting out as "educational supervisor" of the Reedsville, W. Va., subsistence homestead project.

Brought in just a year ago with great kudos, she is now being eased out in the direction of the friends service committee, where she will get a new job.

Though a woman of high ability, her methods were too thought sweeping and high-handed.

UNBEATABLE

CLOSE friends of Governor Alfred Landon say they know the Kansan will capture the Republican presidential nomination. They relate the following story as the reason why:

One day his mother observed him sitting motionless in the broiling sun of the farmyard holding a hen in his lap. Astonished at the extraordinary performance, she asked:

"Boy, what are you doing? Is there something wrong with the hen?"

"Nope. But I need another egg to make a dozen and I'm going to get it from her."

"You are going to get it from her?"

"Yep, this is her day to lay."

"But Alfred, you can't force a hen to lay. You ought to know that."

"I don't care. This is her day to lay and she is going to lay."

Landon's mother, amused at the dogged persistence of her son, returned to the house. Several hours later he rushed in. He was streaming with perspiration but triumphant. In his hand was a newly-laid egg.

According to Landon's friends, 1936 is the year the GOP will lay.

In 1865 it was the headquarters of General U. S. Grant. . . . The U. S. patent office has allowed patent rights to a device "to guard against undue familiarity on the part of rude and flirtatious men and youths who frequently avail themselves of the crowded conditions of cars to annoy and insult ladies next to whom they may be seated." A hush fell over the crowded courtroom. There was a deep silence. The prosecuting attorney turned to the defendant, Egbert Codfish, on trial for murder, and asked: "Why did you kill the man?" One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Sports Are Best Cure For Madness

THE world series and hectic war scares vied with each other for front page position. Odds favored the former. A delightful phase in American psychology is the easy manner of turning to more exciting realities than foreign quarrels.

With football entering the first stage of championship, grim-visaged war is due for almost total eclipse. With stadiums packed to bursting and traffic tied in hopeless tangles; with the rah-rahs rending the welkin, who cares what's going on across the water?

IF PLAY relieves tensions in individuals, national play does similar good for massed populations. There is sturdy character in a people which can slough off its worries and rush to the ball park.

Hurling hats into the air and slapping neighbors on the back; yelling barbed anathemas at the umpires and referees all over this broad land; enduring the barking of atrocious loud-speaking—all of this mimic conflict of persons and groups is a vicarious substitute for war. The sport sheet is more appealing and effective than official bulletins and communiques.

PEOPLES ruled by despotisms know next to nothing of wholesome sport. Life is too grim. Muscles are too set. Routine is too rigid. There may be vast schemes for amusing the servile throngs as in gladiatorial Rome. There may be student dueling among German students, or prolonged drinking bouts throughout Europe. But in no country where English is not spoken is there the zest for athletic renown. Nowhere else does winning brawn reap such rewards.

American athletic customs and language are percolating slowly through the world, but always they look and act like step-children when transplanted to alien shores.

IT IS just too bad that European peoples cannot play in sheer abandon. They have military parades and dress exhibitions; routine gymnastics and one, two, three, four calisthenics. For centuries tournaments and jousts and pageantries thrust themselves across the stage.

But all of these gorgeous spectacles filled the gaps between bloody wars or served as training schools for impending battles. All of them are marked with grimness, deadly purpose, rigid monotony. There is nothing of joy, of restful relaxation, of play for the sake of playing.

* * *

SOCIAL orders are safe as long as peoples retain their ability to play. Buoyancy of spirit, zest for living, good sportsmanship, live-and-let-live policy spring from the eagerness to play.

Fatalism, despair and madness haunt the steps of men or of nations who have never learned to unbend, or from whom the spirit of play has fled.
